

tied to the same type of standard, the underlying equivalent value.⁴

III. Discussion

The Commission believes that the proposed rule change is consistent with the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to a national securities exchange, and, in particular, with Section 6(b)(5) which requires, among other things, that the rules of an exchange be designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and to perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest.⁵

The Commission believes that changing the requisite minimum value size of opening transactions in FLEX Equity Options to include a minimum dollar amount as an alternative to the existing 250 contract opening size requirement will promote just and equitable principles of trade and facilitate transactions in securities while continuing to foster the public interest and investor protection. In particular, the Commission notes that the minimum size requirement for opening transactions in FLEX equity options was originally designed to ensure that FLEX equity options were primarily used by sophisticated, high net worth individuals rather than retail investors. While it appears that the minimum contract size fulfilled its purpose, the Commission agrees with the CBOE that the result of the existing rule is to require a much greater dollar investment for options on higher priced stocks than for options lower priced stocks. For example, an investor can purchase 250 contracts in a Flex Equity series on low priced stocks (i.e., those worth less than $40) meeting the minimum requirement without even investing a minimum of $1 million, while an investor prepared to invest $1 million may be unable to purchase contracts in a Flex Equity series in higher priced stocks (i.e., those worth more than $40). An opening transaction in a Flex Equity series on a stock priced at $40.01 or more would reach this $1 million limit before it would reach the contract size limit, i.e., 250 contracts times the multiplier (100) times the stock price ($40.01) totals $1,000,250. million in underlying value.

Based on the above, the Commission believes it appropriate to provide, as an alternative to the 250 fixed contract amount, an opening minimum size for FLEX equity options of $1 million. In approving the dollar value as an alternative to the fixed number of contracts, the Commission recognizes that the investment for FLEX equity options on lower priced stocks may still be considerably low. Nevertheless, the Commission believes the alternative requirements are appropriate because they will provide flexibility to investors and will not unduly restrict access to the FLEX equity options market. In summary, the Commission believes that the proposed rule change could result in improved liquidity for FLEX equity options while preserving the investor protections inherent in CBOE Rule 24A.4.

IV. Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission believes that the CBOE's proposal is consistent with the requirements of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to a national securities exchange.⁶

It is therefore ordered, pursuant to Section 19(b)(2) of the Act,⁷ that the proposed rule change (SR-CBOE-98-21) be, and hereby is, approved.

For the Commission, by the Division of Market Regulation, pursuant to delegated authority.⁸

⁴ The term "underlying equivalent value" is defined in CBOE Rule 24A.1(r) for FLEX Index options, but it is not a defined term for FLEX Equity options. As noted in CBOE's filing, however, the amount of the "underlying equivalent value" for FLEX equity options is calculated by multiplying the number of contracts times the multiplier (100) times the stock price.
